rizoma: a tradition of quality

Aluminium is the third most common element on earth, after oxygen and silicon; in little more than ten years, its production on an industrial scale has revolutionised our way of living, thanks to its qualities of lightness, durability and strength.

There is not one industrial sector, from aerospace to motorcycles, in which aluminium does not make its presence felt; its "clean" appearance and its attributes make it extremely versatile.

At Rizoma, we began to exploit the qualities of this material as long ago as 1965 and since 1992 we have been manufacturing high-quality motorcycle components in aluminium or in alloy form that are particularly suitable for withstanding various mechanical stresses.

The use of such a valuable material supports a design range that pays great attention to detail and makes our accessories more practical as well as aesthetically convincing; development and testing stages enable us to achieve consistent manufacturing parameters and the approvals required.

Creation of the prototype assumes fundamental importance within the production process; it enables a full assessment to be made of any problems with the product to be marketed and to consider possible variations, modifications and improvements.

Racing experience

To improve the performance of our products, we rely on the racing experience of driver Dario Marchetti, winner of numerous trophies, not least that of the Daytona 2006 and of the Angaia Racing Team that has entered its drivers in the 125 cc and 250 cc world championships since 2000.

Close collaboration with the motorcycling teams allows us to try out improved solutions on a continuous basis and offer a product that is always state-of-the-art as regards performance and materials.

a unique style,
guaranteed.

The certification and approval given to many of our accessories, e.g. wing mirrors and state-of-the-art controls, constitute a fundamental stage in the production process; a product's certificate of conformity is undoubted evidence of high levels of practicality and performance. There is also a more aesthetic level of certification, one which confirms the uniqueness of a design, a demonstration of the uniqueness of our accessories, which makes our brand even more distinctive.

The items of our production are guaranteed for quality, resistance and durability. However they are not homologated for circulation on roads in countries where homologation is prescribed. Consequently RIZOMA® srl declines any sort of responsibility for different use made, asking also dealers to inform buyers of such limitations.

RIZOMA® srl has no connection with HONDA®, YAMAHA®, SUZUKI®, KAWASAKI®, KTM®, MV AGUSTA®, DUCATI®, HARLEY-DAVIDSON®, BUELL®, BMW®, TRIUMPH®, and/or their dealers. All items with trade mark, names or trade mark names for motorcycles identification are to be intended only as a reference for the use of some accessories of our production.

The shapes of the Rizoma universal grips and the range of anodised finishes are strong aesthetic features. The 2007 edition of this item sees an improvement in the quality of materials used: The rubber hand-grip is all new, produced using a new mould and offers improved grip and longer life. The cable stays are included in the kit.

BRAKE/CLUTCH LEVERS

BRAKE LEVER

Never again under pressure

Braking is one of key events in driving, on the track as it is on the road, an event that puts the driver under pressure and requires constant perfection in concentration, practice, vision and controls. Drivers in "heroic" times usually put adhesive tape on the brake lever, so that they always had the very best hand grip when dethrottling.

Today, necessity and technology have changed but the front brake lever is still of fundamental importance, especially with the use of modern radial callipers, with additional aesthetic requirements. This is why Rizoma has created its new, patented design, brake lever, which is above all aerodynamic.

Extensive wind tunnel studies have shown that at speeds above 180 km per hour, the force of the air causes movement of the lever, which puts the hydraulic circuit under pressure, limiting the bike's performance. Rizoma has therefore strived to reduce this detrimental effect to the minimum.

Aesthetics and practicality are naturally of the highest order, in accordance with Rizoma traditions; the lever is shaped from the solid and anodised in three colours, (black, gold and natural billet).

The design of the system is the result of very thorough research, which led the company to decide to patent it.

From the practical point of view, there are ultrafine lines on the front to give the driver's hand the right degree of grip and an articulated joint to avoid breakage in the event of a slide.

The technology used in the construction is of the highest order; the lever offers a wide range of adjustment and moves on bearings with return springs specifically for operational precision, reliability and durability.

CLUTCH LEVER

Aerodynamic, for no... slipping

On the modern motorcycle the clutch can be used much less than it used to be but, in spite of progress and development, it is still a very important device. Studies have shown that at high speeds the air pressure acts on the lever so as to put the circuit under pressure, rendering it non-operational. (hydraulic clutch).

On the modern motorcycle the clutch can be used much less than it used to be. Changing with controls that are ever more precise and smooth make it almost superfluous even uphill, making its use strictly necessary only when moving off. The mechanical element, however, continues to play a fundamental role in the transmission of power from the engine to the wheel. And it has a major enemy: speed. Studies have shown that, at speeds above 180 km per hour, the air pressure acts on the lever so as to put the circuit under pressure in the case of clutches with hydraulic controls. That entails a risk of abnormal clutch wear, which can cause slippage and wear out the discs.

Rizoma's beautiful new clutch lever drastically reduces this negative effect. The subject of much wind tunnel research, it was modified several times to make it less sensitive to air pressure, even at very high speeds, an important achievement, which led the company to decide to patent the original design. Rizoma's Super-sport lever represents the state of the art today and is perfectly suited to supersport bikes, in particular very high performance 1000 cc superbikes, especially for track use.

Another prerogative of this new product, which has always been an exponent of Rizoma's philosophy, is the highest level of care that accompanies the manufacture of light alloy components, and their assembly. This is shown not only by the quality of the finishes but also by the care taken in the search for maximum practicality. One only has to consider the ultrafine lines on the front to give increased grip, the adjustment options and the articulated joint that avoids breakage in the event of a slide. Rizoma's Super-sport clutch lever is available in three anodised colours: black, natural billet and gold.

INDICATOR LIGHTS

The LED direction indicators are amongst enthusiasts' favourite after-market items and Rizoma was one of the first producers to make them available. Our Track-01 universal indicators suggest determination and elegance while complying with the Highway Code: they are "E" approved for mounting either on the front or rear of the bike.
